Fabio Giuseppe Santacroce

ARBLIT - Radicati di Brozolo Sabatini
Benedettelli Torsello

Fabio has appeared as counsel in several high-profile international arbitrations across a variety of sectors, gaining special expertise in construction, energy and post M&A disputes. In addition to his counsel work, he has also acted as administrative secretary to arbitral tribunals in arbitration proceedings under different rules (ICC, UNCITRAL and Milan Chamber of Arbitration), and subject to a wide range of governing substantive and procedural laws (Italian, English, French, Polish, Albanian, Romanian laws as well as public international law).

Fabio's articles on international arbitration are published regularly with the most prestigious academic reviews. In 2014, his article "The Emergency Arbitrator: a full-fledged arbitrator rendering an enforceable award?" was named a runner-up prize for McGill University's Nappert Prize on International Arbitration. Fabio has also been a teaching assistant on the international commercial arbitration course at the Catholic University of Milan.

Fabio graduated summa cum laude from Bocconi University School of Law, Milan in 2012. His graduate dissertation, "Emergency Arbitration Procedures in International Commercial Arbitration", was awarded the Italian Society of International and EU Law's Daniele Padovani Prize for the best graduate dissertation on private and procedural international law. In 2018 Fabio earned an LLM from the University of Cambridge, where he conducted research on human rights and investment arbitration.

Prior to joining ARBLIT, Fabio was an associate at Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer's international arbitration group and worked in the litigation and corporate departments of Hogan Lovells in Milan.

A qualified attorney in Italy, Fabio speaks Italian and English fluently, and can read French, Spanish and Portuguese.

WWL says: Fabio Giuseppe Santacroce is "renowned in the field and has an excellent legal practice". Peers note that his "detail is impressive and he is rigorous in his preparation for hearings".

Korea

Saemee Kim

Lee & Ko

Saemee Kim is a senior associate at Lee & Ko, specialising in international arbitration and cross-border litigation, including enforcement and annulment procedures of arbitral awards. Ms Kim has handled a variety of high-value, complex commercial arbitrations administered under ICC, LCIA, KCAB, AAA (ICDR), HKIAC and UNCITRAL Rules, as well as handling ad hoc arbitrations and cross-border litigation before foreign courts.

Ms Kim is the only associate in Korea recognised as a "Future Leader" in international arbitration by Who's Who Legal 2019, which described her as "a dynamic arbitration lawyer" and a "a future star in the Korean arbitration community". She was also recognised by Who's Who Legal: Korea 2019 as a "Future Leader", and was said to draw "high praise from market sources who endorse her as 'a hard worker' and 'one of the up-and-coming arbitration practitioners' in the market."

She is considered the most visible associate in the Korean international arbitration community by actively participating in arbitration events both in Korea and overseas. She spoke at the 2016 YSIAC advocacy workshop; the 2017 HKIAC seminar for in-house counsels; the 2018 ICC Young Arbitrators' Forum seminar in Seoul; and the Kyoto Pre-Moot Seminar sponsored by HK45 (the young arbitrators' forum of the HKIAC), the Asian International Arbitration Centre and the Young International Arbitration Group. She was selected as a participant in the 2018-2020 Young ICCA Mentoring Programme, for which she had Ms Karyl Nairn QC as her mentor; she has also been serving as the Young ICCA events coordinator for the East Asia region, organising arbitration workshops for young practitioners since 2018.

She is currently pursuing the LLM at Stanford Law School, fully sponsored by her firm.
